The second Question: The sentences below are scrambled. Rearrange them in the correct order to form a coherent paragraph about criminal liability. Write down the correct sequence of letters (A, B, C, D)

Scrambled Sentences:

A. This requires the prosecution to prove both actus reus (the guilty act) and mens rea (the guilty mind) beyond a reasonable doubt.

B. Criminal liability is a fundamental concept in legal systems worldwide, holding individuals accountable for their unlawful actions.

C. Without the presence of both elements, a person generally cannot be held criminally responsible, unless specific strict liability offenses apply.

D. Therefore, a thorough understanding of these principles is crucial for establishing culpability and ensuring justice.
