

04-03-03

Does your university, as an institution, provide students with access to sexual and reproductive health services, including information and educational services?

Abbas Laghrour University – Khenchela aims to promote health awareness among its students by providing guidance and health counseling through its university medical service.

Regarding sexual and reproductive health services, these are offered indirectly through general health awareness activities covering topics such as physical and mental health, education on the prevention of infectious diseases, and maintaining a healthy lifestyle.

For specialized medical services in this field, students seeking such care are referred to specialized public health institutions in coordination with the university's Preventive Medicine Service.

Photos: Seminar titled “United Against AIDS”, organized by the Ibn Sina Club in coordination with the Algerian Family Planning Association, the Faculty of Natural and Life Sciences, and the Subdirector of Scientific, Cultural, and Sports Activities.

<https://www.facebook.com/100075915758628/posts/pfbid0347xWnluHGWCi8ACfoJ6pAiYmet7QbXEuTQ3PhSUgFLWWJxhN1xtiz6kbvF67sYDI/?app=fbl>

Photos: Awareness days organized by the Faculty of Natural and Life Sciences — the second edition of the Scientific Awareness Day for early detection of breast and cervical cancer (Pink October), chaired by Dr. Wanas Miada, under the supervision of the “Water, Health, Environment” Biotechnology Laboratory, in coordination with the National Organization of Algerian Midwives – Khenchela Branch, and with the participation of the university’s Central Preventive Health Unit, EPMS Constantine (School of Paramedical Training), Dramline Laboratory Constantine, specialist doctors, and midwives.

<https://www.facebook.com/100075915758628/posts/pfbid02WQRT3WMyHvNCYZj2FxxTsk3wrJPBxWYqK6aL2z6oWawqwxtLKAW5xEe1C3Ft3Udl/?app=fbl>

عبدوي عبد الحاميد
 كبير علماء الطبيعة